

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF ROCKLAND COUNTY NEWSLETTER

VOLUME THREE NUMBERS ONE & TWO
MARCH & JUNE 1988

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ...

Welcome to the start of a new year for your Genealogical Society.

The first three programs for this year should be of interest to many if not all of our members. Your suggestions for future programs are welcomed, as usual. Perhaps you have been to an interesting lecture or conference that you would like to write up in program form for us to present to the membership, or to print in the newsletter. As time permits, we will continue the practice started of writing up any interesting programs and having them published in the newsletter.

Please note that the Editor desperately needs help in getting out the news, and more specifically finding articles or information to put in the newsletter. Can you share this responsibility? The most difficult part is accumulating the items to print. Once they are gathered, it is not so difficult for one person to get the issue into the computer.

Pat Kerner and I will continue to try to maintain a high level of interest in the meetings through interesting programs, workshops, or discussions among the membership with the aim of finding those elusive ancestors. Your suggestions and knowledge will help to keep our society growing. Thank you.

Marie Koestler

LOGO SELECTION

Final logo selection was made at the March 1988 meeting. The services of a professional artist will be sought to produce a polished finish product to enhance our correspondence, newsletters, etc. Thanks to all for their input.

ANNUAL SURNAME INDEX

It's time to update or rewrite our Society's surname index. If we receive only minimal new information, we will probably elect to issue a supplement, to save paper and postage costs. If however, there are substantial changes and additions, we will produce a whole new edition.

Members are asked to do the following:

If you had listings in the last surname index, please review them. Hopefully you have made progress in your research since the index was printed, and you may have more specific dates or locations, or possible have completed your research of a certain family. If there are any changes, please submit them to the address below no later than Oct. 31, 1988. Members who were represented in the last index are invited to submit up to five additional surnames, for a total of 20.

Any members who were not represented in the last index are invited to submit up to 15 surnames for inclusion in the updated edition.

LETTERS FROM MEMBERS

FROM RICHARD C. RANDT, 9146 WINDING WAY,
ELLCOTT CITY, MD 21043

I noted the plea for Newsletter material in the last issue. I've enclosed copies of some stuff I've turned out for the newsletter of the Howard County Genealogical Society. Their newsletter editor assures me that HCGS does not copyright anything, therefore he encouraged me to send copies to whomever I thought might be able to use this material. (Editor's note: Mr. Randt sent a good size packet of notes, articles, etc., which I will use in this and future issues.)

(He concludes) I hope this material will be of some use to you. Good luck in your editorship.

In response to the plea in a recent newsletter for Bible records of members, submit the following records copied from the Casscles Family Bible, now in the possession of my cousin, Gertrude Ross Toman, of Trenton, NJ. Joseph W. Casscles, born 1839, was the son of James and Mary (Cash) Casscles. Emeline Ten Eyck, born 1845, was the daughter of Jacob Ten Eyck and Eliza Allison. All of these families live in Rockland County. Joseph and Emeline Casscles, my great-grandparents, lived in Stony Point and Stony Point Township (Tomkins Cove). I have much additional information on all the families that I would be glad to share.

RESUMES OF PAST MEETINGS

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY ROCKLAND
COUNTY

EXTRACTED BY
MARIE KOESTLER

MEETING OF NOVEMBER 26, 1987, WAS HELD AT THE SURROGATE'S COURT CLERK'S OFFICE AT THE ROCKLAND COUNTY COURTHOUSE ...

The clerk, Virginia Athens, and the Deputy Clerk, informed the membership of the types and dates of the records available and how to use the indexes. After the session, members were permitted to do research for about 45 minutes.

The 1798 to 1957 indexes are in book form and are located on the shelves. The 1957 to 1985 index is an alphabetical surname index behind the counter. 1986 to current year indexes are available on a computer printout at the counter.

TO SEARCH for a probated will, one would go to the book, card index, or computer printout for the year in question. When liber and page number are located, then one goes to the appropriate liber and page of the Will Book to read the will. A photocopy machine is available for use by the researcher.

It was noted that not all wills were probated, which explains why you may not find a will. If there was a dispute over th will, then it would have been probated to determine its (the will's) legality.

If you do find a will, ask to see the File Folder, which would contain all other papers pertaining to the probate record.

Once you have the liber and the page number of the will, a photocopy would cos $.25 a page. If you request a 25-year search by the Surrogate's Office for a will, the fee would be $53.00. A certified copy of the will would be $4.00 a page.

The clerks were very helpful at the meeting, and members who have since gone to the Surrogate's Office have received the same helpful assistance.

BOOK REVIEW

BY RICHARD C. RANDT,
MEMBER GSRC

"IMMIGRANT LIFE IN NEW YORK CITY, 1825-1863", by Robert Ernst, Octagon Books, Division of Farrar, Straus, and Giroux, New York, 1979, LC No. F128.9.A1E7 1979

For anyone researching an immigrant ancestor who may have lived in New York City during the period of time focused on by the author, this book is an absolute must. Whether your ancestor was Irish, German, English, Scotch, Italian, French, it does not matter. He covers all the immigrants of the period in considerable detail. He draws heavily on census statistics, especially the 1855 New York State census, as well as documents, reports, and ethnic newspapers of the day. From his sources he weaves a comprehensive picture of each of the primary nationalities who populated the Empire City during the period.

The material of this work was originally presented as the author's thesis at Columbia University in 1949. The book was first published by King's Crown Press in New York and reprinted in 1979. The book contains 184 pages of highly informative text divided into fifteen major chapters. Some of the titles: The Lure of America, The Immigrant Arrives, The Immigrant Settles, Tenement Life, Gaining a Foothold in Industry, Immigrant and Native Workers, the Foreign Vote. The author presents his facts in a highly readable manner that, for this writer, allowed me to transport myself to the "sidewalks of New York" and hear the Babel of tongues and accents that existed in that era. Despite its easy readability, the book is truly a classical scholarly work. The author provides 70 pages of notes mercifully consolidated in one section, plus 22 pages of bibliography. The latter may be of minimal value since the book itself is 38 years old. However its age is a plus to my way of thinking since it is 38 years closer to when its subjects were actually alive! ...

Being a "bibliography junkie" and a haunt of library information desks, my spouse came upon a reference to this work in her quest to discover her Irish ancestors who entered the United States in 1836. She ordered the book through the inter-library loan system at our local library. The book was found at the University of Maryland library. She was delighted with the book as it will provide the background information that tends to explain why certain ancestors did certain things, why they held the jobs they did, why many of them died so early in life and a myriad of other aspects of their lives which she could never hope to document directly. It was poetic, Ernst's book provides a canvas on which the genealogist can apply the paints of birth, death and marriage specific to his ancestral line. Definitely worthwhile to obtain and read, even just for the fun of it.

NY TIMES ...

ARTICLE BY RICHARD AND SUSAN RANDT,
MEMBERS GSRC

When researching individuals who lived and died in the vicinity of New York City, you may be able to locate a death date by looking in the Index to Obituaries of the NY Times, a standard reference work found in most libraries. However, unless the person was newsworthy, a regular obituary with biographical background will seldom be found. The alternative, though, is the use of Death Notices. These are the entries arranged like classified ads, in smaller than normal print, usually under a heading like "DIED" on the same page, normally, as the obituaries. Unfortunately, the death notices are not indexed. Therefore you need a date of death or a fair approximation to it in order to reasonably limit your search time. There is much information to be gleaned from the death notices. We recently spent a few hours at a large city library, where they have the complete NY Times, and looked up about a dozen death notices for which we already had death certificates. Was this documentation overkill? Not at all when you consider that we got two confirmations of birth order, two addresses we needed, the name of a company we didn't know, the names of two churches people attended, the confirmation of the relationship of two men as brothers and the identification of a hitherto unknown third brother.

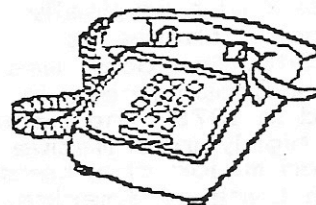

Also, the array of death notices, when suitably transcribed and arranged in chronological order painted a picture of one man and his influence within the family. The patriarch of the clan was always mentioned in the notices. It was always "so-and-so's daughter, granddaughter of the patriarch". Although the death notices take more work to locate than nicely indexed obituaries, it's worth the effort for what you're likely to find.
