PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

On behalf of the Genealogical Society, I would like to thank Marie Koestler and Pat Kerner for all they've done in forming and nurturing the Society. Thanks to Marie and Pat we've come a long way since our first meeting and currently have over 120 members.

Now the Society needs your help. We need copies of information you've collected to fill our files. One of our goals is to collect and preserve genealogical information for future generations. Here's your chance to insure preservation of your family records. Please bring copies of your ancestor charts and family group sheets to our September meeting.

Thanks for your continuing support.

NEHGS Salt Lake City Research Tour November 5-12, 1989

The New England Historic Genealogical Society is sponsoring its 11th annual Salt Lake City Research Tour November 5-12, 1989. NEHGS staff members give lectures and individual assistance in solving genealogical problems at the Family History Library of the LDS Church. The tour, which will be led by NEHGS Director, Dr. Ralph J. Crandall, is open to both members and non-members of NEHGS. The cost, including accommodations (at the Marriott Hotel, 1 block from the Library) and some group meals at nearby restaurants, is $795 (single) or $610 (double) with a deposit of $150 due by Sept. 30. Participants make their own travel arrangements. Both the hotel and the Library are wheelchair accessible. For additional information call Natalie Marko at NEHGS (Boston), 617-536-5740.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Dues are now payable for the Society's fiscal year September 1, 1989 to August 31, 1990.

Please refer to the card included with this newsletter. Thanks to all for your continued support.

OUTGOING PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

At last Pat Kerner and I have come to the end of our terms as vice president and president, and we can be part of the audience and carry on in other capacities.

We thank you for the past support you have given to us, and we trust that you will do the same, and more, for your new president, Les Baisley, and his vice president, Henry Rennie, to enable them to bring our Genealogical Society to new goals for the future.

Thank you again.

LETTERS

From T.K. Sloat, Hermitage, PA. 5 July 1989:

It was very kind of you to collect all the information that you sent me. It is very difficult to obtain information taking place about 1800. I can go back a 100 years on the Parmelia Tayler family but I am stuck on finding the parents of William R. Sloate....I am enclosing a small contribution to your society in appreciation for your work in my behalf. Thank you again.

From Nannette Frey, 1031 Zanotto Lane, Montague, CA 96064. 22 June 1989:

I am writing to say how glad I am that I decided to join your group. After receiving my surname index I was happy to find several people researching the same name — WOOD. In just a few months I have found six distant cousins who have helped extend my line back five generations.

I would like to return the favor in some way. I noticed many researchers for the surnames BABCOCK and CONKLIN....My WOOD history taken from the family bible has many such names that married into the family and their children. This history starts from 1720. I am willing to share what information I have with anyone interested.

Resumes of Past Programs at Meetings of the Genealogical Society of Rockland County

Polish Research

Extracted by Marie Koestler

Program presented by Ted Obel at the May 23, 1989 meeting of the Genealogical Society of Rockland Co.

Mr. Obel got started in genealogy on his own in 1872 at which time he didn't know very much about the subject. By 1974 he knew only four other people who were researching Polish ancestors. Then he joined the Bergen County Genealogical Society.

In 1975 he published Polish family surnames with names and addresses of 125 researchers. He published several other volumes with additional names after that. It would be valuable for other ethnic groups to do this, so you can compare records. Today, there are up to about 2,000 researchers throughout Canada and other countries.

Poland can be used as an example for any country in Eastern Europe. Clues and research material are available. The LDS microfilms number about 24,000 rolls on Poland.

There is a national Polish Genealogical Society out of Chicago with about 700 members by now. There is a regional group in Michigan of probably about 150 to 200 people. There are also groups in Connecticut and Texas.

A lot of Polish families being traced have been in this country for about 100 years. Mr. Obel presented a handout of a selected bibliography for researching ancestry in Eastern Europe.

In 1978 the Jewish Genealogical Society also organized a large membership, which was divided into subchapters. They are currently putting their membership on computer.

Between 1792 and 1918 most political boundaries were wiped out. Parts of Poland were German,

Austrian, and Russian. You have to be aware of the language changes, records, etc.

Mr. Obel emphasized that it is important to know your ancestor's geographical location. Then through LDS microfilm or writing to the old country you can at least get started. Included in the handout Mr. Obel presented was a list of sources such as naturalization records and passenger lists. Sometimes you have to go through the entire lists if you do not know the month. It could take a long time.

Most Polish people came over and settled in clusters. However, sometimes they came over and went to places on their own. For example, the northeast part of Poland was under the Tsar's rule (Russia). The parish records went back to the early 1600's. Many of these people settled in Connecticut.

In Illinois, where Mr. Obel's father and grandfather settled, many came from southern Poland.

Another source is U.S. Veteran's Records and Draft Registration Records of World War I, but you have to know what Draft Board your ancestor was covered under. These records are in the Atlanta Branch of the National Archives.

Marriage certificates in the older ethnic churches here in the United States, especially in the Catholic Church, contain quite a bit of detail.

Austrian Passport Records are on LDS microfilm (South Poland) or Ukraine, Bohemia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, and possibly parts of Yugoslavia.

There is an LDS branch in Middletown which is open two days a week, but the librarian will make an appointment for a small group. There will be another one soon in Caldwell, N.J.

In the New York Public Library, there are phone books and old maps. People there are very cooperative and helpful. Mr. Obel was able to locate some villages and towns which he had known only phonetically and by rough location. There are pre-1900 maps. Old Poland was on 14 large maps. He finally found the small villages, but the spelling was different.

In the phone directories, you start by looking for the surname. Mr. Obel keeps a folder of anything on a surname he is researching, in case something comes up later on. There are certain names and families that come out of a certain geographical area.

Political boundaries: Be careful about the names of towns and villages. Use gazetteers or geographical dictionaries. For Poland it is 15 volumes.

Language: You are not always using the native language. Most of the Catholic Church records are in Latin. Sometimes they were in Russian (old style). The old handwriting is very difficult to decipher. If you don't know some of the key words relating to vital records (i.e., births, deaths, etc.) you should have a pocket-size Latin-English handbook.

On the German side in the Catholic Church, some records are in Polish and later in German. The Evangelical records would be in German.

There is a myth about records being destroyed. It isn't so.

If you have done enough homework on this country, you can start doing some real digging. Start writing to people in Poland. If you have no contacts, but know some locations, try to get the name of the church that serves that particular village or town. Some of these you can get in the phone directories, or you can write to the Catholic University Library in Poland. They have been quite cooperative in providing the names of the pastors of churches.

When it comes to translating documents, there are some handbooks with "how-tos" and sample letters. The Genealogical Societies are also quite helpful in guiding you in your research.

Some have been lucky writing to a postmaster to see if there are any people with the same surnames still living there. If you are writing to a church, some pastors will respond and others will not. You should send in a little donation. There is usually a certain courtesy—you are expected to give something. American dollars go a long way.

There are very few problems with traveling to these countries any more. Even the Soviet Union is opening up a great deal. There are regular itineraries to Kiev and then on down to the Black Sea. You can go to the cemeteries, libraries, churches, etc. Some genealogical societies are planning tours.

In travelling, remember that nearly all Eastern European countries pride themselves on the local libraries. Poland and Hungary are predominantly Catholic. Bohemia is Protestant. Yugoslavia is a mix, and Croatia is presently mostly Catholic.

At County Seats in Poland there are Vital Records Offices. These can contain some parish records. The National Archives System is out of Warsaw and State Archives are in the provinces. Use the foreign telephone directories if you take a trip there.

The office of the Roman Catholic Primate has been helpful to a certain point. They won't do the research, but have sometimes given information on births and marriage certificates.

In some of these countries there are no professional genealogists for hire as we have here. Sometimes lawyers will do this, but they will charge you a lawyer's fee.

Pitfalls: Even when someone signs an affidavit on a name, it may or may not be correct. There are sometimes mistakes in copying records. Be careful if yours is a very common surname, such as Kovalsky (Smith).

The New York Times European Atlas is also handy sometimes. In some of the older issues they have the old names. It lists the old name and the current one. Most libraries have this atlas. □

Rockland County (NY) Items from Bergen County (NJ) Newspapers

From The Bergen County Democrat, September 17, 1880:
NYACK—Wm. S. Stillwell, father of Edward Stillwell, and a well-known resident of this village since 1859, died at his son's residence early Tuesday morning, after a long illness produced by paralysis. Deceased was 68 years of age. Funeral services occurred at Grace Chapel, Thursday, and the body was taken to Greenwood for interment.

BUYER BEWARE

The following lists have been extracted from information distributed by The International Genealogy Consumer Organization, 4329 S. Stafford Way, Salt Lake City, UT 84119; The National Genealogical Society, 4527 Seventeenth Street North, Arlington, VA 22207-2363; "Fight Back with David Horowitz" and articles published in The New York Times.

The International Genealogy Consumer Organization does not recommend the following:

The following people or businesses promise research that they do not deliver. They are particularly dangerous because they have placed large ads in general-circulation magazines. Their target is the innocent, rather than the experienced researcher who might recognize their rip-off.

- Bayley, Beatrice, Sterling, PA
- de Breffny, Brian, London, England
- Roots Research Bureau
- Ross, Elizabeth "Your name here"
- Spectator Books, Inc., Moweagua, IL
- Taylor, Sharon

"Your name here", Max
"Your name here", William

Roots Research Bureau, Ltd. offers a history of your name for $30. The manuscript does not contain any genealogical information about specific families and does not contain any information on doing your own research. There is a blank family tree chart, a brochure about coats of arms, and a typed report "Why you have a family name and what it means." The manuscript is identical to manuscripts sold by Media Research Bureau for $2 in 1940.

For $32.85 Beatrice Bayley offers a brief introduction to genealogy, a blank genealogy chart, a fuzzy photocopy of a coat of arms that may not relate to the family at all, and a list of people with the same surname which appeared to have been taken from an old commercial mailing list. One book suggested contacting these people to share research. Some of the people named on the list had died some time ago and had no interest in genealogy when they were living. Beatrice Bayley mailed out 18 million postcard solicitations and sold nearly 270,000 books before postal inspectors stepped in a shut down the operation. Beatrice has simply continued "her" operation using various other names.

Elizabeth "Your name here" Ross and several other (or maybe the same!) genealogical con-artists have a great gimmick. Thanks to computer technology, the postcard that you receive will make it appear that the person selling the book has the same last name or maiden name as yours. The book offered by Elizabeth Ross and the price of that book is identical to the offer made by Beatrice Bayley. These companies are being investigated by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service and the Office of Consumer Protection for false advertising. All of the information in these books could be photocopied for about $2 from reference books in any library with a genealogical collection.

Those who are seriously interested in their own family history should be prepared to do some research. There are thousands of reputable genealogical societies and libraries. The LDS (Mormon) Church also offers an extensive collection of family records for the researcher. "Genealogical Helper" magazine publishes an annual list of family organizations and newsletters. Meanwhile, if someone were writing a family history that included your family, they would have contacted you or some member of your immediate family to get information on your branch. Your first contact should not be an offer from a stranger to sell you a completed book. □
