President's Message

As another year of meetings comes to an end, we would like to thank Florence Anderson for serving on our Board of Trustees. She ended her term in June 2008.

Thanks also, to Joan Brooks for serving as our secretary for many years. Joan ended her term as secretary in June 2008 and will now be joining our Board of Trustees.

Thanks to the Board members who continue to make the GSRC possible.

Sincere thanks, also goes, to Joanne Potanovic who has faithfully issued the newsletter these past years. This newsletter could not continue without the efforts of Joan Brooks and Marie Koestler who have been contributing Bible and marriage records.

The Board requests all members to contribute more by sending in bible records you may have. These records would help others with their research. Also, please send copies of your family's and friends' obituaries which you may have tucked away. Our newest project is collecting these obituaries in order to help future researchers.

Below are some of the projects we are currently working on:

- 1) The 1891 Westshore RR Census which lists where a person lived by street name in the villages and towns along the Hudson in Rockland County. We will be putting this information on the GSRC website as soon as it is proofread.
- 2) The Holt Funeral Home Book will be added to the website in the near future.
- 3) The 1925 Census will be listed by town and published in book form. We need volunteers to help with proofreading. Hopefully this will be completed by next year.

Les Baisley
President

Bannerman Castle

Wes and Barbara Gottlock will present a fascinating program about "Bannerman Castle" and the man responsible for the development of the island, known throughout history as "Pollepel Island." The island is located in the Hudson River, very visible from the Cornwall area. It was once considered to be haunted; it is mentioned in the folklore of the Dutch sailors and held a role during World War II. Being only accessible by boat has added to the mystique and legend. The Gottlocks offer a brief history of the island and then focus on Francis Bannerman VI.

Who was he? How did he build an empire that culminated in the "castle" which bears his name?

The Gottlocks are advocates for preservation of this island and will devote a portion of their presentation to the importance and mission of the Bannerman Castle Trust.

You are invited to join us for this varied and interesting look at the Bannerman family history, the "Castle" and the Trust.

Sat., Nov. 1, 2008

(Ellisse/Ellison/Allison)

This program features Bob Mayers, a resident of New Jersey who has been researching his family genealogy for over 30 years. His search included a journey to England where he was able to trace his roots back to 1400AD. However, family folklore had indicated a linkage between New Jersey and the Orange-Rockland area and Bob was unable to find it. Bob traces his search as he used the resources in Goshen, NY. The outcome is a tribute to the extensive information available in government records and those in the Orange County Genealogical Society. Bob is a published author, who has recently completed the book, "The War Man", a biography of Corporal John Allison of Monroe, Orange County, NY. who fought in the Revolutionary War.

Join us for this "arm chair" search and the culmination of the journey to find the "Missing Link" and the discovery of long lost relatives from the Orange County area.

New York's Palisades Interstate Park

by

Barbara H. and Wesley Gottlock

Program Presented at the May 27, 2008, Meeting of The Genealogical Society of Rockland County

Barbara and Wes are the authors of New York's Palisades Interstate Park, a book in the Images of America series, published by Arcadia Publishing. Barbara and Thom Johnson have also written another book in this series, Bannerman Castle, which Barbara and Wes spoke about in one of our previous programs.

In the mid-1800's, the beautiful Palisades cliffs were being heavily quarried for trap rock to satisfy the increasing building needs of New York City. There were constant dynamite explosions along the cliffs, day and night, for years. About 1890, opposition began to spring up in the fear that the Palisades would be destroyed and gone forever. Finally, in 1899, following strong support from the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs, the Governor of New Jersey was given the power to create a five-member commission to study the Palisades and make a recommendation to prevent further destruction. In New York State, a similar proposal was passed, and Gov. Theodore Roosevelt signed it.

The Palisades Interstate Park Commission was formed with five representatives each of both states. This is still in effect today. The Commission began to purchase the land along the Palisades, from New Jersey up to Rockland and Orange Counties. George W. Perkins served as president of the New York section of the Park from 1900 to his death in 1920, and he wanted to preserve the land and convert it to recreational sites. Edward Harriman, and later his widow, Mary, contributed large funds to build Harriman and Bear Mountain Parks, which began in 1910.

Once the land for these parks was purchased, individual homes, villages, were taken over by the Park, and the residents were forced to move out. Some of the hamlets that no longer exist are Johnstown, Baileytown, Sandyfield, Doodletown, and Iona Island, which was a military installation.

There were hundreds of summer camps located in these two parks, mostly for children from New York City.

Some of the slides the Gottlock's presented were:

- The Palisades, showing the damage from heavy quarrying.
- The Steamboat "Robert Fulton" sailing the Hudson River along the Palisades.

- A family picnicking on the beach below the cliffs, c1915.
- Construction of the prison at Bear Mountain, which was demolished before it was finished, and replaced later with the Bear Mountain Inn.
- "The Good Spring House" at Lake Kanawauke, a residence for handicapped children.
- Ice houses at Rockland Lake.
- Camp Bluefields, Blauvelt.
- Bear Mountain Inn.
- Steamship "Highlander" docked at Bear Mountain, c1920, discharging passengers who were heading up to the Inn on the jitney.
- The Bronze Elk on the cliff above the Bear Mountain dock, with the steamer, "Alexander Hamilton," in the background.
- Bear Mountain ski run, c1922-1923.
- Famous Norwegian ski jumper, Torger Tøkle, c1939, with American ski jumper, Art Devlin.
- Dr. Benjamin Talbot Hyde, "Uncle Bennie," established several nature museums in the Parks, including the Trailside Museums that exist today.
- A group of horseback riders who utilized the stables in the Park.
- Perkins' Tower.
- The Carousel at Bear Mountain.
- New Windsor Cantonment.
- The Purple Heart Museum.

These slides and many others that were presented appear in the book.

Trip to Governor's Island, etc.

By
Sally Pellegrini

Informal Presentation at the June 24th Meeting of the Genealogical Society of Rockland Co.

Sally is Local History Librarian for the New City Library. Recently a group of Library patrons and Stony Point Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, took a trip to New York City, including Governor's Island and Fraunces Tavern. Participants met in the City, traveling there utilizing different modes of transportation; i.e., the 1-1/2-hour trip on the Haverstraw Ferry; driving to Weehawken and taking the Ferry to South Street Seaport, etc.

The morning was spent at Governor's Island, which is about 800 yards from Manhattan and accessed only by ferry. It is the original site of the Governor's quarters, which was purported to have contained a basement dungeon. The Island consists of two parts—one is the original site, and the other is the part of the island that has been expanded using landfill from the 72nd Street subway project. When Mayor LaGuardia was in office, he originally planned to put the airport (LaGuardia) on the island.

The group was guided by a Park Ranger. Early Dutch settlers arrived there first, but later, the British evicted them. There is a 3-story circular fort, Fort William, which is well maintained. Another fort also exists there—Fort Jay, which originally had a moat surrounding it. Now, Fort Jay is an artist colony. During the Civil War, Confederate prisoners were imprisoned at Fort William under deplorable conditions. Later, the U.S. Army took over Governor's Island (for officers' quarters and the USO), and then, about 1996, the U.S. Coast Guard utilized it. General MacArthur resided there at one time. Beautiful houses, walkways, park-like settings, outdoor sculptures, etc., still exist. There was a small church, which Trinity Church in New York City owned.

There is a Gift Shop, and guided tours of the Island are offered on Wednesdays and Thursdays. On weekends, one can walk in or bicycle. They have plans to rent bikes in the future.

From there some of the group went to the South Street Seaport, and Battery Park Terminal. Then they all met to have lunch at Fraunces Tavern in lower Manhattan. Sally noted that this restaurant was very expensive.
